

- Trade through Kazakhstan to Russia rose roughly tenfold after February 2022.
- A rerouted dollar creates about a tenth the value added of a produced one.
- Three commercial deal databases show no investment response to the shock.
- A customs union makes trade a close substitute for domestic production.
- Kazakhstan's least capital-constrained investor also did not build capacity.